

Customer was in the queue to pay for a one product

There was a old lady following him even he changed the queue

But She was still following wherever customer was going

Customer was nervous and afraid.
Is she going to ask money from him?
Is she going to attack because of his nationality?
Is she trying to sell odd things to him? And then asking blue uniform who she is

Customer asked the coop employee. He had no idea then he said she is POLICE

Customer was shocked .POLICE Asked her to show the identity card .Then he said she is a detective working for a COOP. Customer was confused He wanted to talk to the store Manager . There was no reason because he was queuing to pay for a product (one) .Stealing one product and say hi to coop employee... ?? . Why do people are so foolish

Manager has come and said. Get out and He was offensive. Customer was calm. He has not used offensive words or used his hands and legs.

Customer was so angry and asked his name

Manager has said . Name ?, He will not provide his name , If POLICE (real police) wants his name , tell them to come and ask the name blah blah

Customer demanded to call the police

Manager was angry to hear the name POLICE . He Said Asshole , you want to call the Police , and then he dragged the guy and almost attacked the customer and put him in their secret room

Customer was calm and Police came . Police escorted him till the coop exit

Summary of the story : If you are smart to identify their women called detectives, do not shop.
Never call the police if anything happens inside the coop.
Because you cannot be calm as that guy and lucky as the guy to convince the real police